You Can’t Cross a Rose With a Dandelion

Some are proud, demanding for attention with their full, finely shaped petals, pleasing to everyone,
Some are a dime a dozen, unimpressive to some
A few are so tiny hardly anyone would notice them.

Some have a sweet smell
but most have none at all
A plant is a very special thing, even able to close up when touched.
but not every flower goes in a bouquet

When I was little, my mom would call my favorite flowers weeds
they were so small and cute
People love animals of all shapes and sizes
but what about the smallest plants?

Tread on with no respect,
they’re “only plants”
“They’ll grow back”
“They’ll be fine”
Would a rose of any other name truly smell as sweet?
There are some that know better
